Juniors Plan Commencement Ball

LOOKING OVER plans for the Commencement ball, scheduled for May 31, are co-chairmen June Baker and Bud Bond. Tickets for this year's final dance, annually sponsored by the junior class, will go on sale in the SUB next week and cost $2.50.

Decorations of mountains and clouds will carry out the theme of "Dreamer's Holiday" as the junior class presents the Commencement ball from 9 p.m. to midnight May 31 at the Sportsmen's Cha-teau.

Co-chairmanned by June Baker and Bud Bond, the semi-formal dance is sponsored annually by the junior class to honor the graduating seniors.

$2.50 Per Couple

Programs for the dance, costing $2.50 per couple, will go on sale in the SUB next week. In charge of programs is Lois Cameron.

Music will be provided by Bert Garrett's "Ninety-Niners," a seven-piece band from Federal Way. Entertainment will be singer Carol Sanford, a CPS freshman.

Chairmen Listed

Juniors working on the dance include Sylvia Crowe, publicity; Sandie Webber, decorations; Karon Fountain, refreshments. Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. John Phillips and Rev. and Mrs. Robert Albertson.

11 Cadets Receive Awards At CPS President's Review

Eleven graduating seniors and underclassmen were decorated by high-ranking military and civic leaders Monday at CPS, as a feature of the sixth annual President's Review, in honor of the college president, Dr. R. Franklin Thompson. Staged in the Fieldhouse parking lot as the culmination of the academic year, the review was a display of the leadership training given to the CPS cadets.

Highlighting the occasion was an address by President Thompson to the cadet corps, and his presentation of a leadership award to William Seifert for outstanding leadership, academic merit and civic activities. Seifert is a senior.

Other seniors winning awards were Gary Ralstin, who received the 25th Air Division Commander's Achievement award, and also the AFROTC Group Commander's award.

Johnnie Louderback was given the Air Force association award. Richard Hammermaster received the Boeing Airplane Co. award and Craig Lowry was presented with the Professor of Air Science Inspirational award.

The Republic Air Power award was presented to a junior, John Lindal.

Four sophomores received awards. They were Cadet Master Sergeant Delman E. Vosburg, who was given the Rotary Club of Tacoma award; John Sherwood and Albert Gunns, who received the Chicago Tribune Gold and Silver awards respectively, and Arnold D. Jackmond, who received the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation award.

The only freshman receiving an award was Randall Smith, who was presented with the National Sojourners, Fort Lewis Chapter No. 89 award for scholarship.

Cramer Again Heads SCC; Changes in RE Week Planned

Re-elected president of the Student Christian council was Don Cramer. Other officers for next year will be Rollin Stierwalt, vice president; Naomi Scruton, secretary and Helen Kirk, treasurer.

Religious Emphasis week will be changed next year. The council plans to have three religious emphasis periods consisting of three days each in Oct., Dec. and Feb. During these periods SCC hopes to obtain prominent speakers such as Charles Taft, son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The aim will be to select speakers who will employ religious ideals in their discussion of secular topics.

President Cramer announced SCC has revised its organization into a much more "effective and efficient" setup for next year.

The new system will comprise 31 voting members on the council, a cabinet composed of the officers and six committees—worship, interdenomination, ecumenical relation, religious emphasis program, religious center and publications.

Alumnus-of-the-month for June is Russell Clay, class of '22, who is pastor of the first Methodist church in Whittier, Calif., and a civic leader.

SCC Report Wins Board's Okay

In a move apparently intended to stave off a lengthy controversy that might block important legislation, Central Board excluded the explosive Religious Life center appendix when they accepted the ASCPS Commission's findings on Student Christian council Thursday.

The report, which earlier this month caused a storm of both protest and support, was presented to the Board by the special "investigatory" commission members, Ron Usher, Rusty Barber and Naomi Scruton.

Ann Throckmorton, acting to put the issue before the Board, moved acceptance of the report "excluding the RL center appendix." After a lengthy haggling over parliamentary procedure and proposals of amendments, the report was accepted with three dissenting votes. Larry Baker, Mel Henry, and Marlene Buck voted against the report.

As accepted, the report calls for SCC program changes in finance and activities with various recommendations the commission arrived at after closed door hearings last month.

President Spencer Stokes pointed out the action was merely a resolution accepting the report "as representing the views of the Board." The Board vote does not bind either SCC or future Central Board, he said.

The appendix, considered to be too hot an issue with time consuming budget worries before the Board, proposed alterations in the Religious Life center in Jones hall. Representatives to the Board did not press for consideration at Thursday's meeting nor was there an indication a show down on the issue would be pressured for this year.

An SCC spokesman said his organization would not take any action this year.

It is traditional for college editors, in the last issue of their term, to review, not without a trace of bragging, their accomplishments.

If letters to the editor are any indication of interest provoked, the Trail indeed has something to brag about, for 28 letters were submitted this year in comparison with the previous year's four.

In addition to publishing the first four-page issue in two years and the literary supplement, AUM, the Trail staff can be proud of its 25 issues—the most ever published in one year.

At various times the Trail's editorial policy has been criticized as pro-Greek, pro-Independent, pro-administration, anti-administration, pro-Christian, anti-Christian, ad infinitum. But the only justifiable criticism is that the Trail has been pro-CPS student.

To the Editor:

We, as co-chairmen of May Day, wish to express our appreciation to all those who have helped to take May Day a success. A special note of thanks is extended to the hard-working committees and their chairmen—Eileen Kurth, Kathy Heinrich, Arlene Dettrich, Marilyn Larson, Georga Dee Martin, Helen Lahti, Orphalee Moos, Sandy Webber, Katie Howe and Barbara Keevil.

Others who gave their time and effort are Mrs. Merle Hagmann who made flowers for the court, the departments who set up displays, the Knights and Spurs who led tours, Prof. John Cowell who gave the carillon concert, Mrs. Edna Chessman, who provided the royal luncheon, and those who provided the entertainment—Adelphians, CPS band, Mrs. Mary Samuelson and Jere Pennell, who arranged the judo demonstration.

Special thanks go to the buildings and grounds department for their cooperation. We only wish the weather had cooperated as well.

Our appreciation also goes to those who loaned props—speech department, Tacoma Little Theater, Anderson Fir Finish Co., Marush Fish & Oyster Co., Ghilarducci's, and many others. We appreciate your cooperative efforts and hope you enjoyed May Day.

IN THIS CORNER . . .

Letter to the Editor:

Having just finished reading with reverent respect an article titled, A Formula For Successful Teaching, written by Raymond L. Powell, I am inclined to feel that the corollary, A Formula For the Student, is needed and forthcoming. But in the last analysis of education, I am embarrassed by the temerity of presenting any such formula; the best thing and the only thing I dare suggest is lemon in water on rising.

Now it is a common fallacy to attempt to coerce one scientific field, or other areas of human inquiry, by applying principles of another field or area which usually do not have any similarity in problems or in goals; it is a practice I deplore. Commercial interests successfully exploit this fallacy by appealing to the popular dogmatic faith in the word science. Much to the dissatisfaction of competent scientists, the popular concept of the sciences is a rabbit in the hat act, voodoo, or Mandrake show.

Dogmatism Anti-Scientific

Although this popular interest in "science" should be comforting to the scientist, the dogmatism and the appalling connection with magic is in actuality antithetical to science. J. Bronowski, noted British scientist, expressing himself in the Dec. 29 issue of the Nation, claims that the best scientist is really very creative, that he recognizes human dignity, and that the only a priori stipulation is a habit for truth. Mr. Kenneth Walker has dropped the remark, that "there are as many scientific methods as there are scientists."

I see no reason why such a field as pedagogy, relating to we don't know what, should try to conform to a standard of pseudo-science or the popular conception of science. The ironical point is that a field, that has no business attempting formula, is not only doing this, but is also defending an approach scientists themselves would avoid.

I think it an interesting context that the article following written by Dr. Robert D. Sprenger, who is a competent professor in the science department, deals with the human value in the science curriculum. He feels that the goal of the science department in a liberal arts college is not dogmatizing scientific concepts, but in the development of an inquiring mind through the student.

Editor, the Trail:

I would like to use this letter as an opportunity to thank those people who contributed to the success of the newly founded Independent bowling league. My thanks go to the men who organized and entered teams in the league, and my congratulations go to the CPS all-star bowling team which defeated the all-star aggregation from PLC.

This inaugural match between CPS and PLC came about from a challenge issued the Lutes by the CPS bowlers at the completion of the Independent league season. We felt this would be an excellent opportunity to promote good, friendly competition between our schools.

The first engagement proved profitable not only because we won the match, but also because a new form of athletic competition with our cross-town rival was brought about.

Bowling is rapidly coming into its own, and I hope that CPS and PLC can continue in this field on an annual basis.

STEVE MACKKEY,
Secretary, Independent
Bowling league.

Lutes Spoil Logger Title Hopes

Coach Joe Hemel's CPS baseballers lost their chance for a tie in the Western division Evergreen conference title last Friday by dividing a twin bill with rival Pacific Lutheran at Western State hospital. The Lutes won the opener 4-3 and the Loggers the night cap 9-6.

The split solidly entrenched CPS in second place and gave them an overall season record of 13 wins in 27 games.

The Friday contests were played in a steady drizzle of rain which was a factor in stopping the second game after only five innings of play.

Couldn't Catch Up

PLC scored three runs in the second stanza of the first game off starter Jerry Burke and CPS could never quite catch up.

The Loggers got their first run in the third on three walks and Jack Umbriaco's single. They scored two more in the sixth after two were out on a walk, hit batsman, Dick Jarvis' single, an error and a wild pitch.

Chance to Tie

The Hemelmen had their big chance to tie the ball game in the top the seventh when Bob Hill doubled but was later tossed out trying to reach third after an outfield fly. This play sent the Logger chances for the title flying away.

The Loggers could get only four hits but also received eight free passes from Lutheran pitching. They left eight men stranded on the bases.

Led From Start

In the second contest CPS took the lead in the first inning and were never in trouble. The maroon and white forces scored one in the first, four more in the second and two runs in each the third and fourth frames.

Ken Palmer went the distance in the second game and allowed only three hits. He struck out two.

The big blow of the day was Umbriaco's home run in the second contest. It was his fifth round tripper of the year. He also picked up two singles in his seven times at bat. Jarvis had three hits in five trips and Gary Brines two for six.

Final Games

The doubleheader was the final games of the season, and as mentioned before gave the championship to Western Washington. The Loggers and WWC tied for the title last year, and CPS won the playoff game to meet the eastern division titlist.

The games were the last collegiate play for three CPS diamondmen. Hard-hitting Umbriaco, and pitchers John Barnett and Palmer have used up their four years of eligibility.

Bob Maguinez, although not a senior, was playing in his last game for the Loggers, too.

Seattle U Golfers Defeat CPS Squad

CPS golfers bowed to Seattle University May 13, 12-3. Mike Hunt of SU was individual medalist shooting a 67, which was four under par. CPS medalist was Mike Paulus with a 73. According to assistant coach Leland Waite, "the loss was not taken too badly for Seattle's team is supposed to be one of the best on the Pacific Coast."

A conference meet is scheduled for May 25-26 at Indian Canyon in Spokane with UBC, Western, PLC, Eastern, Whitworth, and CPS participating.

Tom Names, Mike Paulus and Skip Sorenson are sharpening up for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) to be held in Renton May 31 and June 1. A good score could qualify these men for the nationals in San Diego.

Kappa Sigma Wins Intramural Baseball as Todd Hall Falsters

Kappa Sigma, winning its last four games in a row, won the men's intramural softball title with a record of five wins and one loss.

The K-Sigs needed help from the Veterans on the final day's play to win the crown. The Vets came from behind and went on to defeat Todd Hall in the extra innings 17-15. Vet Gary Wickstrom hit a home run over the left field fence to send the game into the extra stanza.

Don Taylor pitched the Kappa Sigs to victories over Sigma Nu 19-5 and Sigma Alpha Epsilon 16-3 on Monday and Tuesday last week and then Theta Chi failed to field a team for the scheduled final contest.

Dennis Heinrich pitched the other two K-Sig wins.

Todd Hall who had started strong and thumped the title winners earlier in the season faded in the late going and were defeated by Sigma Chi and the Vets.

This year's intramural program was run with the greatest of ease by intramural manager Marv Matson. Matson stated, "We are very happy that the Veterans have gotten together and are playing in our program. They are an asset to the school and certainly have helped out the intramural program."

Joe Hemel, intramural director, has put out a call for candidates for the manager's job and any interested student is urged to apply in Hemel's office.

Thompson Says No Sorority Housing in New Dormitories

By KATHY FLOOD

"No group or organization will have any preference or formation in the new dormitories," Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, CPS president, stated. Everyone will be admitted on an individual basis regardless of Greek or any other affiliations, he said.

The new dorms are being completed according to schedule. Fifty-three per cent of the time allotted in the contract has now elapsed and 48 per cent of the construction is completed. The contract calls for the dorms to be ready for occupancy by Sept. 2, and Dr. Thompson believes that the contract will be fulfilled.

The furnishings have already been ordered and are expected to arrive in June. Most of the rooms will accommodate two students, but there will be a few larger rooms. The buildings will not be attached to the other dorms but will stand independently.

Because of the increased number of women students applying for residency for next year, women may have to be housed in both of the new buildings, but this will not be decided until June 15.

At present the new dormitories are unnamed, and the date of dedication, if there will be one, has not been set.
